Press Release

Professional Data Systems now a Dell Certified Partner

Customers benefit from partnership advantages

WHITE PLAINS, NY, June 16, 2010 – Professional Data Systems (PDS), a leading medical IT service provider, today announced it has joined Dell’s PartnerDirect program as an Enterprise Architecture (EA) Certified Partner. Dell Certified Partnerships are granted only to select vendors who have met specific sales, customer service and training requirements. Dell has recognized PDS’ proficiency in building solutions to meet the needs of their clients and their commitment to understanding the technology that Dell offers.

PDS offers its clients medical IT expertise gained over years 15 years of installing, configuring and maintaining Dell computers, servers and other IT equipment. As a Dell Certified partner, PDS will now have access to exclusive partner-only training, which will further increase its Dell computer expertise. Additionally, new and existing PDS customers will receive priority support from Dell technicians as well as advantageous pricing only available through Certified Partners.

“Dell offers medical practices of all sizes a wide range of computing solutions, and PDS enables them to increase the value from their Dell investments.” said Tom Telesca, owner and president of PDS. “Our Dell Certified Partnership status ensures that we have immediate access to all Dell product information and are able to offer our clients support and guidance on the latest technologies available from Dell. Also, we can assure practices will always receive the most accurate advice and up to date information on their required products and solutions.” Tom added.
